

BASEBALL—SPORTS OF ALL SORTS—BOXING

STANDING OF THE CLUBS

National League

W. L.	Pct.	W. L.	Pct.
Br'klyn 16	9.540	Chicago 16	17.485
Phila. 17	12.586	St. Louis 15	18.441
Boston 15	12.556	Cinc'ti. 15	18.441
N. York 14	13.519	Pittab'h 12	18.387

American League

W. L.	Pct.	W. L.	Pct.
Wash'n 21	11.856	Phila. 13	17.423
Clev'd 21	12.636	Detroit 13	18.419
N. York 14	13.519	St. Louis 12	17.414
Boston 15	15.500	Chicago 13	19.405

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

National League.—Chicago 8, Philadelphia 3; Brooklyn 6, Pittsburgh 0; New York 4, Cincinnati 3; St. Louis 2, Boston 0.

American League.—All games postponed; rain.

A special golf tournament will be staged at the Harlem course Saturday and Sunday, with an entrance fee of $1. Competition will be in two divisions, and one qualifying card of 18 holes must be turned in. Worthwhile prizes will be given to winners of the two sections and to the runners-up.

Arranging the tournament in two divisions gives opportunity for victory to the duffer, as one class will be composed of the fellows who take in the neighborhood of 100 for the course. The tournament is being promoted in a worthy cause, but the object of it is told only to prospective entrants, the benefit being intended as a surprise.

Lincoln Park golf course is in condition, according to the commissioners, and big crowds are expected for Saturday and Sunday competition. The North Side course does not compare with Jackson park at present, but the spongy turf and the cross wind from the lake make for great possibilities, and a few more traps will form a stiff test for any fellow's game.

CUBS WILD ON BASES—BUD SCHULTE BATTING HERO

By Mark Shields

A tendency to run bases in a care-free manner at some periods, and on other occasions to lag on the paths, is costing the Cubs some runs, despite their redoubtable attack. With a little headier work on the runways the locals would be making more dents in the counting block.

As the Cubs finally succeeded in trimming the Phillies yesterday, this is a fine occasion to discourse on the shortcomings, as no indictment of peevishness or crabbiness can be issued because of a defeat.

Give the locals what for the moment appears to be a comfortable lead and they do not think much of increasing it. They at once throw off all restrictions and proceed to run wild around the cushions, usually with disastrous results.

Yesterday they counted eight runs and won by a margin of five, but this margin could have been easily wiped out by the aliens at one stage, and a little larger lead would have given the home folks a greater feeling of security.

Our fourth inning was a fair sample. Four runs had rolled home on some singles and a homer by Frank Schulte. Flack was on second base and one man was defunct. Cy Williams had three balls called and a single strike. Prospects were bright for some more counters. Flack thought it would be fine business to steal third base on the next pitch. He attempted the play, but was flagged easily by several feet.

The pitch was bad and Williams walked. That would have put two on and one out. Cy then figured on stealing second, but he also was pegged at the bag. Cy's attempt was not poor baseball, but there was little profit to be gained from Flack's